

Hello everyone!

I am a Master's student in Management at Luiss Guido Carli University, with a keen focus on entrepreneurship and innovation.

I am currently enhancing my academic experience as an exchange student at San Diego State University. This immersive experience has broadened my horizons, providing me with new skills, knowledge, and an extensive network of global connections. Studying abroad has sharpened my adaptability, enriched my cross-cultural competence, and exposed me to diverse perspectives, all of which I believe are essential in today's interconnected business landscape.

In addition to my academic pursuits, I have also delved into the world of practical experience. I had the privilege of serving as a Junior HR Intern at "Natuzzi" during a transformative three-month internship. In this role, I took charge of the management and optimization of various HR processes within the organization. My responsibilities included ensuring the efficiency and alignment of HR practices with the overarching objectives of the company. During this internship, I had the opportunity to strengthen my HR management skills, particularly in terms of organizational proficiency. Moreover, I gained hands-on experience with the SAP platform for HR management, solidifying my technical capabilities.

As I advance in my academic journey and prepare to embark on my professional career, I am confident that the combined skills, insights, and global perspectives acquired through my studies and practical experience will position me as a dynamic contributor to the business world and beyond.

I eagerly anticipate the opportunity to apply my skills and knowledge in various settings, forging meaningful connections, and making a positive impact on both organizations and communities.
